

December 2013 Issue was Knowledge Enhancing

I read the 'From the President' column of December 2013 and am very much delighted with the manner in which the President has put across views and guidance on two critical aspects that are bothering our profession tremendously. These aspects are 'Auditors and Changing Economic Conditions,' and 'Importance of Ind AS converged with IFRS'. I congratulate the President for being articulate and thought-provoking in his column. Other contents of the issue were equally good and useful.

The Editorial of December 2013 issue titled 'India Story Remains as Credible as Ever Before' was very interesting, positive and well conceptualised and written. The arguments given in favour of India growth story go down well to purge our outlook on economy of any unwarranted pessimism. The timely and well presented report on ICAI's Kolkata International Conference was yet another notable feature of the issue, which was worth reading. Besides, all the three articles under the theme issue of 'Frauds and Prevention' were very timely and added to my knowledge base. In my view, publication of more articles under this feature is the need of the hour, which will also help professionals in their duty to curb financial and other frauds. The cover was also very thoughtfully designed to portray the theme in right earnest.

Keep up the good show.

November 2013 Issue on LLP Very Useful

I read the November 2013 issue on Limited Liability Partnership during my Diwali holidays and found it immensely useful. Especially the articles on LLP law gave a thorough insight of concept of LLP. Also legal updates given in each issue are immensely valuable and useful. I would like to suggest inclusion of more articles on international taxation.

The November 2013 issue of the journal was highly informative. Particularly articles on LLP titled 'Overview of LLP Law,' 'Opportunities for CAs in LLP Law,' and 'Taxation of Limited Liability Partnership,' were packed with knowledge. The article on international taxation titled 'Indian Safe Harbour Rules – An Analysis,' was also highly informative and useful while the article in General category titled 'Professional Scepticism' also made an interesting reading.

ICAI's Kolkata International Conference a game-changer

The International Conference for Members held in the City of Joy from November 21-23 has been a game-changer in the annals of the CA Profession. The inauguration by Hon'ble President of India in the presence of West Bengal industry minister, the Governor of West Bengal and senior representatives from the bureaucratic world set the stage for greater participation of ICAI in inclusive growth of India. On the second day, we got an in-depth understanding of the professional opportunities in Muscat, Dubai, Oman and Gulf countries from the panel discussion. Kudos to our President, ICAI for his excellent moderation of many of the sessions. The sessions on Branding, Happiness Index were very well received as we were able to see the bigger picture on several professional issues. Similarly the session moderated by our Vice President on Capacity Building and Knowledge Management was very relevant, insightful and valuable. We thoroughly enjoyed the 'Sunidhi Chauhan night' at Netaji Indoor stadium. The last day of the Conference saw the deliberation of vital professional matters like Companies Act, 2013, Forensic Audit and several other issues.
